Michigan Bell Rate Raise Set At $7,221,822

LANSING—(P)—Michigan Bell Telephone Co. today received permission to increase rates for the fourth time since World War II and to raise pay station telephone calls from five cents to ten cents.

The Michigan Public Service Commission allowed the company to raise certain rates $7,221,882 annually. Michigan Bell a year ago asked for a $17,700,000 increase.

The Commission denied the application last Nov. 20 but on the company's application reopened the case to take into account new increases in wages and taxes.

No More Nickel Calls

With the order, Michigan joined the parade of states in which the five cent pay station is disappearing. The Commission approved increasing the charge to 10 cents.

The balance of the increases was concentrated in small exchanges having less than 3,000 telephones and on business telephones.

In Detroit, Michigan Bell said the increase "falls seriously short of what is desperately needed to assure good telephone service in the future."

"Not only is the increase inadequate," the company added, "but the delay in getting it has denied the owners of the business a return on their investment that cannot be recovered."

The company contended that an increase of $9,700,000 is needed to

Price On Copper Products Raised

WASHINGTON—(P)—A producer price boost for copper products has been authorized by the government in another attempt to break a month-long stoppage of copper imports.

Acting Mobilization Director John R. Steelman, however, overruled yesterday a federal subsidy plan favored by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) to avoid the inflationary impact of higher prices on copper and brass items.

The new plan, although it gives copper and brass mills only about six-tenths of a cent more per pound, will break the log jam in imports, a mobilization official predicted.

But he added, "we can not be sure that industry will buy at the present 35½-cent price being asked in Chile and elsewhere."

Officials said the six-tenths of a cent increase per pound assumes that the cost of foreign copper is 35½ cents, the present asking price. If the foreign price falls, the increase would be less.

Copper imports stopped a month ago when Chile broke off its agreement to sell most of its output to the United States at 27½ cents a pound.

Falling Limb Fatal

CHEBOYGAN—(P)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Alfred Dubey, 58, of Wolverine, at the Indian River Catholic Shrine. He was killed Thursday by a falling limb that struck him as he trimmed trees. Burial will be in Kawkawlin.

The House approved the measure yesterday by a 230 to 115 roll call vote, after only brief debate. McFarland planned to call it up for Senate action today.

The bill authorizes $6,447,730,750 for military and economic aid abroad during the year beginning July 1. This figure was decided on in a Senate-House conference Tuesday to adjust differences in previous aid bills passed by both Houses. The bill does not make funds available. That will be done in separate appropriations legislation. Opponents of the present bill, who say it is too big, have said they will try to cut it in the appropriations stage.

The conference eliminated an amendment by Kem stopping aid to Allied countries which knowingly export war materials or commodities useful for war production to Iron Curtain nations.

Kem said in a statement that he would move to return the compromise measure to conference, with Senate instructions to put the provision back.

The House-approved compromise measure caps $1,468,750,250 or 18.6 per cent from President Truman's original $7,900,000,000 request.

The measure is $273,130,750 more than the House voted and the same figure less than the Senate bill. The conference adjusted the differences through a 50-50 split.

He said the corporation paid $325,026 before the Aug. 31, 1951, deadline. A study of the tax return, however, showed what Dykema claimed was the improper deduction of an outstate bank account and three reserve funds as exemptions.

Army Worried Over Cut In Tank Output During Steel Tieup

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Army is expressing concern over the impact of the steel strike on its tank production program.

During the last two months, a spokesman said today in answer to questions, the "production picture has improved greatly."

But, he said, the steel strike "will have an adverse effect on tank production, an effect which will become progressively worse the longer the strike lasts."

Tank building represents one of the military's major needs for steel. To make one of the new T-41 light tanks which weighs 28 tons, together with spare parts, a total of 68,000 pounds of steel (34 2/5 tons) must be on hand; a medium tank of about 48 tons needs 118,000 pounds.

The Army declined to disclose the total amount of light, medium and heavy tanks for the current production program.

However, in recent testimony before a Congressional committee Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, remarked that if Congress went through with a planned cut in the military budget for the next fiscal year starting July 1 the Army would have to "eliminate over 3,000 medium tanks" from its program. He said that would mean "we could build only 300 tanks for our Army during the entire fiscal year."

Carrying his estimate beyond that point, Collins asserted this in turn would mean that no spare modern tanks could be supplied to any overseas troops, including those in combat in Korea, and that there would be almost an 80 per cent shortage in requirements for newly developed tanks for Army forces in the United States.

About half the money in the bill was for post office work done in May. The postal employees did not get their usual checks June 1 because the post office had run out of salary funds. This fiscal year's regular payroll appropriation was used up early, due to a general pay raise. Congress had not voted money to cover the additional pay. This is the last month of the fiscal year.

Postal Workers To Have Pay-Day

WASHINGTON—(P)—Congress whipped an appropriation bill through both Houses yesterday and President Truman signed it, putting meaning back into the pay days of half a million postal workers.

Rap At Reds Pushed In Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senate majority leader McFarland faced a new fight today by Sen. Kem (R-Mo.) for a tightened Allied blockade of Red nations when the Senate considers a $6,447,730,750 foreign aid bill.

The House approved the measure yesterday by a 230 to 115 roll call vote, after only brief debate. McFarland planned to call it up for Senate action today.

Great Lakes Steel Ruled $89,722 Short On Franchise Taxes

City Council Rejects Carnival For Legion

By a three to two vote the Escanaba City Council last night rejected an American Legion request to sponsor a carnival in the city and thereby established an anti-carnival policy that is expected to hold for at least a couple years.

Policies can hold only for the period the present council is in office, can change with a change in Council membership.

Councilman Guy Knutson, already on record as opposed to visiting carnivals, moved for rejection of the Legion's request. His motion was supported by Councilman Ed Cox.

The vote: Yes — Councilmen Knutson, Cox, and Wesley Hansen; No — Councilman Jacob Bink and Mayor Robert E. LeMire.

Bink's Motion Falls

The vote was taken only after long discussion of carnivals in general and their effect in particular upon the community.

Councilman Bink, in supporting his position that if the Legion's request was denied there should be no other carnivals in the community, sought to have the Council go on record against a carnival at the U. P. State Fair

Fair Walleye Season Fails To Daunt Tourists

His motion, made after Council rejected the Legion request, was to have the Council request the chairman of the Fair Board "to keep carnivals out of Escanaba."

"I cannot go along on that," said Mayor LeMire. He cited the Fair as "a great asset to the Upper Peninsula and to the community" and said he believed the Council should do nothing to jeopardize the Fair.

Failing to receive a second, Councilman Bink's motion died.

Supporters Angered

Mayor LeMire and Councilman Bink, supporters of the Legion's request for permission to bring a carnival here, were critical of Safety Director Glen Leonard's report in connection with his investigation of the reputation of the Wallace Brothers Shows.

The Council had asked the safety director on May 16 to investigate the carnival and report.

Last night Leonard in a letter reported to the Council that he had on May 19 written the commander of the local Legion post asking an itinerary of the carnival so that he could check those communities where the carnival has shown and thus receive information on the carnival's reputation. He never received a reply from the Legion commander, he advised the Council.

Councilman Bink was displeased with the report and Mayor LeMire said it was "no investigation at all."

"I almost feel he should be censured for his failure to investigate," said the mayor.

Leonard Defended

City Manager A. V. Aronson pointed out that Leonard had not received a reply from the Legion, the sponsoring organization, and that the safety director had made a progress report to Council.

"His investigation is not dropped, but the Council had to be notified," said the city manager.

Aronson also told the Council that Kiwanis Club in the past has sponsored appearance in Escanaba of circuses, which also must receive Council permission. The city manager said that as a Kiwanian he was on the circus committee and made an investigation. The reports were all favorable, but when the circus came it was "rotten," he said.

Councilman Bink and Mayor LeMire directed attention in the discussion to the charitable and community service work done by organizations sponsoring carnivals and circuses.

Councilman Knutson said he believed the organizations could find other methods of raising money that would be less harmful to the community.

The mixed choir of the church sang "Abide With Me" in the Finnish language and C. Arthur Anderson sang "I Look Not Back" and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

Pallbearers were John Ranta, Richard Sjolund, Matt Wiltala, Victor Niemi, Wester Bjorn and August Kaupila.

Okay Legion Band Request

Cloverland Post, American Legion, is sponsoring a "Know Your America" pageant to be presented in Escanaba June 13, and the City Council last night approved participation in the program by the Escanaba Municipal Band.

The program will be presented in the evening at Memorial Field near the Fair ground.

The Michigan Department of the American Legion is sending the "Know Your America" program on a tour of 30 Michigan cities. It was described as a program to combat the forces of Communism.

In other business the Council authorized City Manager A. V. Aronson to enter into a contract with Employers Mutual Insurance Company for the purchase of excess coverage on compensation insurance at a cost of $389.50 annually. The city had asked for bids and Robert Schmitt appeared before the Council representing Employers Mutual, whose was the only offer made the city.

The city has its own compensation insurance coverage but decided to augment it with excess coverage. The city's compensation insurance fund totals approximately $40,000.

City Purchases Gas, Sells Lots

Low bid for the purchase of 10,000 gallons of gasoline was accepted by the Escanaba City Council last night and in other business the city sold a number of residential lots east of the State Fair Grounds to the high bidders.

Standard Oil Company's bid of 14,012 cents per gallon was low. Other bids were entered by Hansen & Jensen Oil Company, 14,243 cents; and Wadham's Oil Company, 14,247 cents per gallon.

for lots 6, 1, 2, and part of lot 3 in Block 3, because the bid of $725 was $100 below the minimum price established by the city. The area will be readvertised.

Improvement Of Highway M-35 Is Welcome News To Motorists

THE State Highway Department's announced plans for the improvement of Highway M-35 south of Escanaba—the popular "shore road"—is welcome news to the people of this area.

Highway Commissioner Charles Ziegler placed M-35 improvement on the program several years ago with the stipulation that the work would be undertaken when funds were available. Meanwhile the surveys were made, plans and specifications prepared, and property acquired for necessary relocations.

Paradox No. 1 and the strangest of all was the fact that the steel industry did its best to prevent Black from taking his seat on the Supreme Court when he was first appointed in 1937.

At that time, Frank Prince, a noted private detective, employed by Republic Steel, dug up Black's record as a former member of the Ku Klux Klan and turned it over to Ray Sprigle of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and other newspapers. Sprigle was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for the exposé.

The reverberations which followed caused Black to be challenged regarding his fitness to sit on the bench, caused Chief Justice Hughes to withhold the customary note of congratulations and caused a storm of press criticism led by Scripps-Howard, plus others which now sing Black's praises.

The new Supreme Court justice was hounded by the press upon his return from Europe. The Alabama Klansman, R. P. Day, who supplied the affidavits exposing Black, fell under a train and was killed the day after the exposé. And various corporation lawyers planned to challenge Black's right to sit on their cases.

CHAMPION OF LABOR

Paradox No. 2 is the fact that behind big business opposition to Black's appointment was his vigorous pro-labor record as a senator. Yet in contrast to his earlier record in the Senate, Black has now written an opinion generally criticized by labor.

As a senator from Alabama, a conservative, agricultural state, Hugo Black might well have been anti-labor. Instead, he took on one of the most courageous and thankless jobs in the Senate, the sponsorship of the wage-hour regulation bill. His colleague, the late Senator Bankhead was opposed, as were many Southern senators.

Despite this, and despite threats to defeat him at the next election, Black pushed the wage-hour bill through the Senate.

It was one of the most outstanding personal triumphs of the New Deal legislative program. No wonder the steel industry and big business raised their hands in horror when they read of his appointment to the Supreme Court.

Anyway, there'll be hundreds of kids peddling bikes more hours of the day and night than they did during school days.

It is an appropriate time for parents to take a little time to talk to the youngsters about bicycle safety. A bicycle is a wonderful and useful machine for kids but it can be a dangerous instrument, too, if the rider fails to use caution and common sense.

Every youngster should have a list of the traffic rules and regulations for cyclists and, of course, they should observe these rules. They include a ban against such practices as double-riders, riding on sidewalks, riding two or more abreast, riding at night without lights and reflectors.

The boy or girl who learns to ride a bicycle carefully and to take care of his or her bicycle properly has learned the basic lessons of good citizenship. In all probability, such a youngster some day will develop into a good and careful motorist.

But the youngster who disregards the friend of mine from out of town visits me handling of a bicycle most likely will some day become a reckless motorist—if he lives that long.

More political candidates would be promising young men if more of them were young.

A lot of stag conventions are held just so the date for the next convention can be set.

The safest side for a man to take in an argument between two friends is the outside.

The most successful people keep their mind on their work—others their work on their mind.

The Doctor Says... Chest Surveys Help Arrest TB By Detecting It In Early Stage

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Hundreds of thousands, if not millions of people are now familiar with community chest surveys.

Sometimes, however, these surveys raise problems which are rather confusing.

One reader writes, for example: "A friend of mine from out of town visits me occasionally. During the chest survey conducted during 1949 she told me she received the following diagnosis from the health department: 'Accentuated markings in the fifth interspace of the right lung. Another examination is recommended in six months' time and sputum cups are enclosed.'

Survey Results Good

Probably Savannah, Ga., was one of the first large cities to try this method out on a large scale. During the autumn of 1945, nearly 75,000 residents of the county, which contained about 150,000 people, appeared voluntarily for chest X-rays. It was found that many residents had tuberculosis of the lungs without knowing it, and many of these were in the early stages.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(ED NOTE—The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court.)

WASHINGTON.—There were some strange paradoxes about the fact that Justice Hugo Black handed down the Supreme Court's historic majority opinion turning the steel mills back to private operation.

Paradox No. 1 and the strangest of all was the fact that the steel industry did its best to prevent Black from taking his seat on the Supreme Court when he was first appointed in 1937.

It was one of the most outstanding personal triumphs of the New Deal legislative program. No wonder the steel industry and big business raised their hands in horror when they read of his appointment to the Supreme Court.

Anyway, there'll be hundreds of kids peddling bikes more hours of the day and night than they did during school days.

It is an appropriate time for parents to take a little time to talk to the youngsters about bicycle safety. A bicycle is a wonderful and useful machine for kids but it can be a dangerous instrument, too, if the rider fails to use caution and common sense.

Every youngster should have a list of the traffic rules and regulations for cyclists and, of course, they should observe these rules. They include a ban against such practices as double-riders, riding on sidewalks, riding two or more abreast, riding at night without lights and reflectors.

The boy or girl who learns to ride a bicycle carefully and to take care of his or her bicycle properly has learned the basic lessons of good citizenship. In all probability, such a youngster some day will develop into a good and careful motorist.

But the youngster who disregards the friend of mine from out of town visits me handling of a bicycle most likely will some day become a reckless motorist—if he lives that long.

More political candidates would be promising young men if more of them were young.

A lot of stag conventions are held just so the date for the next convention can be set.

Although Black was not appointed to the court by Harry Truman, it happens that he has a high personal regard for most of the ideals toward which the President is striving. But in writing his opinion, he was thinking not of personalities nor of any one president, but of the future power of all presidents.

TOO MUCH POWER

Opposition to too much power long has been one of the guiding motives of Black's life. When he was elected prosecutor of Jefferson County, Alabama, as a young man, the first thing he did was to end the practice of collecting "petty fees" from those arrested for minor offenses. On his first day in office, he dismissed 500 cases of alleged petty offenses, most of them charges of dice games against Negroes arrested on payday.

Blast Furnaces Sprout On Land Where Spinach Was Once Grown

By RICHARD KLEINER

MORRISVILLE, Pa.—(NEA)—Between 4:30 and 5 every afternoon, a strange parade of mud-coated cars and trucks turns the main intersection of this small city into a monstrous bottleneck. They come from a mile down the road in a bend in the Delaware River, a place the townspeople call "the site."

It is here United States Steel is building its new Fairless Works, which will be one of the world's great steel mills. Here 10,000 men are fashioning an industrial colossus on 3,842 acres that used to be 63 truck farms. The new crop will be steel, not spinach.

It used to be rich farmland and it was a good place to live. Not far to the north, Washington crossed the Delaware, which winds serenely by on its journey to the sea. There were big trees and peaceful homes, many dating from the 18th Century.

Today, the peace and serenity are gone. A "quick tour" around the site—which takes an hour—is like riding the roller coaster, skidding through the mud and dodging groups of workmen and trucks at the same time. As far as you can see, the $400,000,000 mill is going up.

There are blast furnaces, ugly and black against the soft Bucks County countryside. There are the nine open hearth furnaces, with the odd yellow precipitators—which will cleanse the smoke—clinging to them like leeches. There is the sheet and the finishing area, a grouping of about a dozen buildings, some big enough to drive through.

Trucks and men swarm over the area, and there is still one house.

It was a "comfortable" house with a big porch and wide steps. They let it stand to serve as a temporary office, but its days are numbered. Soon it will be torn down, like the others.

On the road just outside the main part of the site a few other old buildings remain. One, a school house in the 1700's, is a lovely white-washed brick structure, still proud behind a new sign that reads, "National Tube Co., Operations Division." National Tube, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, will have a big plant on the site.

When quitting times comes, at 4:30, the construction workers in their brown and red tin hats get in their muddy cars, slip and slide out to the main road—and proceed to give Morrisville its one steel-inspired headache.

Except for the traffic situation, the area is happy about its gigantic neighbor. But when the news of Steel's acquisition of the tract first got around, residents were horrified.

"They imagined," says a Steel spokesman, "there would be big clouds of black smoke all the time. They pictured us going over to Europe and bringing boatloads of rowdy, hard-drinking foreigners over here to work the plant. They thought these men would bring fat, sloppily dressed women and have a kid every ten months. They weren't happy."

NEVER GROW UP—Just who first put pencil to paper and sketched the first "comic strip" is a matter of history. And history is something the comic artists have little to do with.

But since they first began, the comic cartoonists have run an even and not unconventional course at the level of childish phantasy. They have never grown up. Let's hope they never do, for in their definitely juvenile appeal lies the element of their success.

While the taste (if it may be thus dignified) of the public changes, with one cartoon strip winning popularity while another wanes in public interest, the situations and elements of cartooning continue forever.

LAUGHTER AND SUSPENSE—The daily cartoon strip, beginning some 40 or more years ago, placed a burden of application upon the artist.

He must be hilariously funny every day of the week or his reputation suffered. Laughter is one of the most difficult emotions to arouse and maintain. Comics and clowns are in profession noted for the paucity of its members. Many may try but rewarded with laughs.

To maintain interest and still not be required to confound the reader with laughter, the comic artists began turning to the story form of strip. If they couldn't make people laugh they could at least keep them in suspense until the next issue.

The number of story strips gradually increased until the old-fashioned but still most highly-treasured commodity of humor was all but lost.

Mark Trail was drifting unconscious in a boat down the Colorado River; Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae were falling from a skyscraper in New York; Alley Oop was falling off a cliff in California in the Gold Rush days; Cap'n Easy's little pal (whose name escapes me) was being eaten by alligators and pursued by thugs; Freckles had run away from home, pursued by his friend, Lard.

All of this jumble of action is apparently intended to produce a feeling of suspense on the part of the reader and bring him over to the developments in the story on the following day.

But for all the welter of plot and counter-plot, the American reader is most interested in the humorous development of a situation, rather than its tragic or suspenseful aspects.

WHERE THE FAILING—Some creators of comic strips have achieved national reputations. Their names and the names of their comic strip characters are known to millions of people.

Within recent months some of these artists, perhaps encouraged by the barbs from critical readers, have retaliated with statements to the effect that the American sense of humor is slipping.

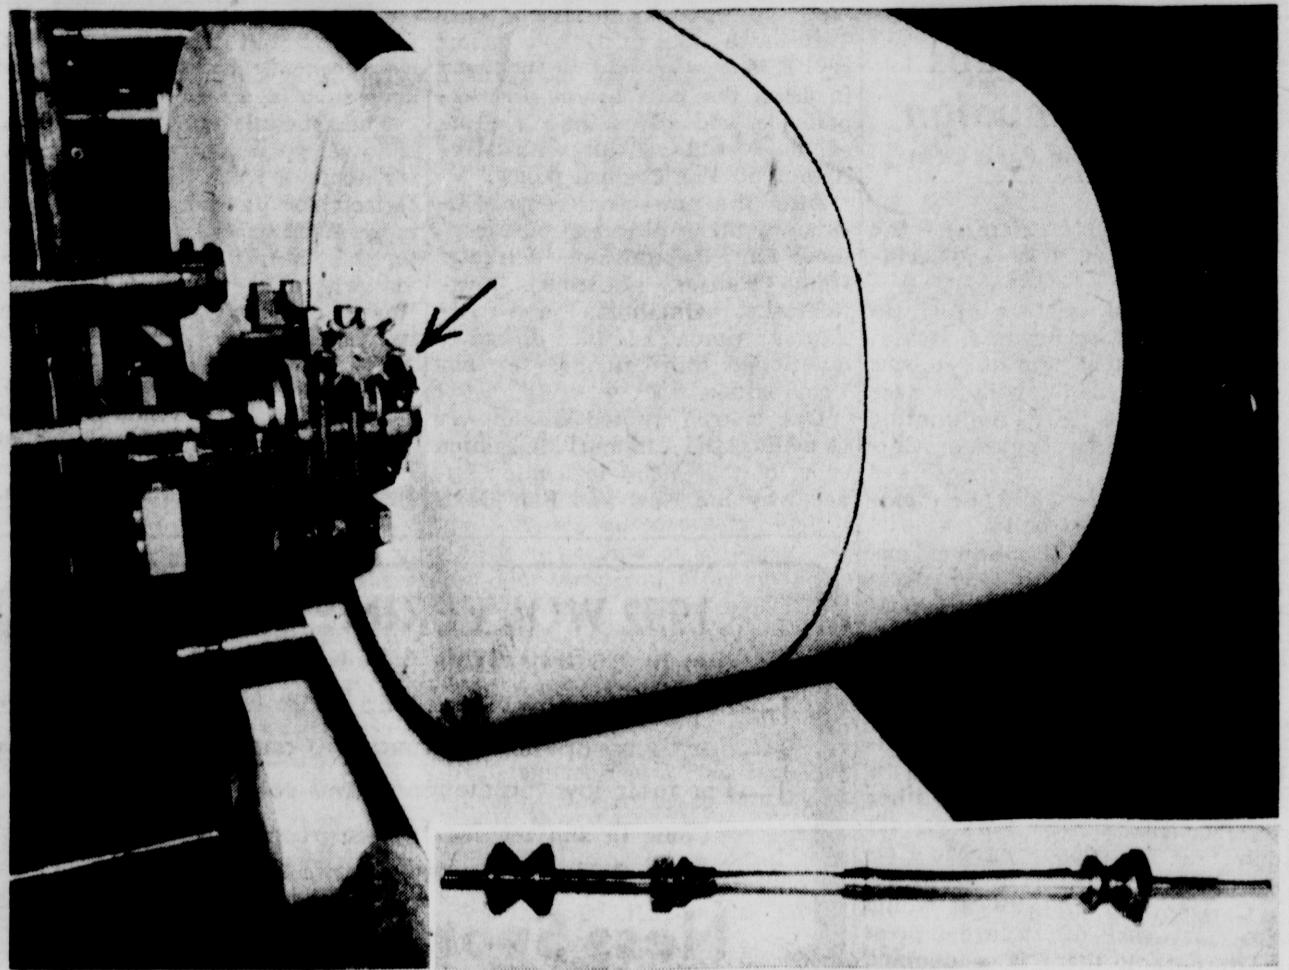

People are no longer able to laugh. They are too tense. They are not amused by the comical but want excitement rather than laughter.

Perhaps what the cartoonists overlook is that in too many cartoons today there is nothing amusing, nothing to laugh at or about, nothing to look at but people in tragically perilous positions.

AKIN TO TEARS—While it may be true that laughter is akin to tears, it is equally true that hate is akin to love.

The fondness that folks once felt for their favorite comic strip characters is slipping away as the so-called comic artists present a host of hateful people doing hateful things. The readers can soon acquire a feeling of hate for such unsympathetic characters.

NEW PRESS DEVICE — With the development of the new tension control device, indicated by arrow above, the Escanaba Daily Press is able to use two 17-inch rolls on one shaft instead of the conventional one 34-inch roll. This is done only occasionally to save full-size newsprint during periods of critical newsprint shortage. The device, which consists of a metal sleeve and brake attachment fitting over half of the regular shaft, was developed in the press room of the Escanaba Daily Press. The shaft is shown in the insert of the picture above. So efficient is its operation that the two rolls appear to turn as one since the line of demarcation is barely discernible. The line of demarcation is inked in the picture above to show that the shaft is carrying two rolls instead of one. (Daily Press Photos)

Press Develops Device To Conserve Supply Of Full-Size Newsprint

The Escanaba Daily Press has developed a comparatively simple tension control device for its new 20-page tubular printing press to permit running two small rolls on one shaft—thus making two 17-inch rolls (dinkies) do the work of one 34-inch roll and saving considerable full-size newsprint.

Solving Paper Problems

The Escanaba Daily Press purchases its newsprint from the Abitibi mill in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and currently is paying $117 a ton. This represents an increase of $16 a ton in the last two years. Effective June 15, 1952, the Escanaba Daily Press must pay $10 a ton more for its newsprint—or $127 a ton.

With such innovations as the development of its new tension control device, the Escanaba Daily Press is doing everything possible to solve its newsprint problems in its own shop.

Thus, it can conserve its supply with the new tension control device, but it has no control over price. With very few exceptions, the price factor is established on a national scale.

The Press' innovation was conceived by Rene J. Sabourin, press foreman, and developed in cooperation with T. D. Vinette of Vinette iron works.

Kids Test Carnival Rides For Success

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Officials of the charity carnival here are pretty sure their "Kiddieland" will be a success. All the rides have already been successfully "kiddie-tested" by the children of Naval Air Station personnel.

Special feature enjoyed by the children was the chance to turn

Thus, with the use of the sleeve with the attached brake it is possible to run three small rolls in a 14-page or 18-page edition or two in a 12-page edition.

In addition to the sleeve and brake, the device is equipped with a bushing fitting to the core, a lock, brake drum and a floating key into the sleeve.

With the use of the two brakes, the tension is maintained in the normal manner on each roll as the paper is fed into the press and the diameter of the rolls is reduced.

Efficient Device

Many tension control attachments have been devised to control the tightness of the paper with canvas belting bands on the outside of the roll and also in many other ways.

However, the Escanaba Daily Press' novel sleeve-type control device has proved to be very efficient and is believed to be one of the best of all the various devices now being used to enable newspapers to save their valuable supplies of full-size newsprint.

Use of such devices does not result in any monetary savings because newspaper publishers must

No Suspension Of Cigaret Tax

LANSING — (P) — The state revenue department said it would continue to collect and enforce the state cigarette tax despite a decision in the Berrien county circuit court holding part of the tax law unconstitutional.

Deputy Revenue Commissioner Clarence W. Lock said the tax would be enforced until the state supreme court forbids it.

Although there is no "saving clause" in the tax law which would leave all but the rejected portion in effect, Lock pointed out that the state has a general "savings" statute which keeps in effect portions of any law which are not specifically overruled by the court.

Yesterday Circuit Judge Chester P. O'Hara overruled the portion of the law which applied to the imposition of the tax on importations from other states before they reached their destination, holding that it thus violated the federal control of interstate commerce.

Attorney General Frank G. Millard said he was awaiting a copy of Judge O'Hara's decision before deciding on the next course of action.

He said if the supreme court should uphold Judge O'Hara, the cigarette tax act enforcement would be extremely difficult.

Judge O'Hara of Detroit conducted the Berrien county case as visiting judge.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. — (P) — A family of wild cottontail rabbits has set up housekeeping in Traverse City's miniature village. The village—a reproduction of Traverse City—covers a small plot in the public park off the main business district. It has cute little buildings in a setting of Japanese dwarf trees and shrubs. It's quite a tourist attraction.

And now for the first time, the village has live inhabitants. Seven baby bunnies scamper about all day long while Mammie Cottontail hops the fence and goes foraging.

Gayla Prim And Lloyd H. Flath Exchange Vows

The 35th wedding anniversary of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Flath, Escanaba Route 1, was the wedding day of Gayla Dawn Prim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Prim of 1301 Drexel St., Detroit, and Lloyd Harland Flath. The service was read June 4 at 2 p. m. by the Rev. A. A. Schabow at St. Paul's Ev. Lutheran Church in Hyde.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, William Lole, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and satin with a yoke of illusion. The lace in scalloped effect formed the snug-fitting bodice and long tapering sleeves and a panel extended down the front of the full skirt. Her veil of illusion was caught to a half hat of lace over satin edged with pearls. She carried a cascade of stephanotis centered with a lavender orchid, with long satin shower ribbons.

Bridal Attendants

Mrs. William Lole, was matron of honor, Mrs. Roderick Kittner and Mrs. Dale Lippold were bridesmaids and little Jeanne Kittner was flower girl. Their gowns of orchid, nile green and yellow were of identical style fashioned of crisp nylon tulle and Chantilly lace, and their headpieces were tiaras of beads and orange blossoms tinted to match the gowns. The matron of honor carried a cascade of yellow roses with yellow snapdragons and lavender. Bridesmaids' bouquets were yellow roses and yellow sweet peas and snapdragons. The flower girl was in a powder blue organdy frock. Her head band was of blue snapdragons with pale blue ribbon tied under the chin and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink snapdragons centered with blue carnations with blue and pink satin streamers.

Gordon Flath served as best man for his brother, Ushers were Roderick Kittner and Dale Lippold.

Mrs. Prim attended her daughter's wedding in a gray knit suit with which she wore a corsage of deep red roses. Mrs. Flath wore a white gabardine suit with pink accessories. Pink sweetheart roses and yellow roses formed her corsage.

Traditional bridal music was played by Bill Clark who was organist of the service. Soloist was Don Belanger who sang the Wedding Prayer and "I Love Thee." The altar of the church was banked with palms and large standards of gladiolus, peonies and snapdragons in pink and white. Two vases of similar flowers were at each side of the altar. White satin ribbons marked the pews reserved for the families.

An anniversary prayer for the bridegroom's parents was a part of the service.

Dinner and Reception

The bridal dinner was served the bridal party and immediate family members at the Dells Super Club and a reception was held there for 400 guests. The tiered wedding cake was encircled with pink roses and springerle fern. Two tall vases at each side held pink roses, snapdragons and peonies, and lower pottery vases at each end contained pink, white and yellow snapdragons. Tall standards of flowers formed the background of the room. Pouring were Mrs. Fred Swank and Theresa Curran. The reception music was played by Bill Clark and Ivan Kobasic played the music of the wedding dance which followed.

The newlyweds after a honeymoon in southern Minnesota will live in Escanaba Rte. 1.

Wedding guests included Mrs. Louis Schaaf, Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rumpa, Detroit, Edwin Miller of Rhinelander and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paviots of Menistique.

AP Newsfeatures

Do you think you have musical talent? Or maybe it is a friend who toys with the idea of going to a big city—perhaps New York—where she might make the grade.

If it is a good friend who has forced you to sit through a Grade Z performance and then has expected you to break out with bravos and "you're sure to make it" remarks, you know how difficult it is to discourage her.

In his new novel, "Who Did What to Fedalia" (Doubleday) Meredith Willson provides an interesting answer to that question. Mr. Willson is musical director of the NBC program, "The Big Show," also conducts his own radio program, appears regularly on television, and has written such popular songs as "The Peony Bush" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," plus a book of reminiscences about his boyhood, "And There I Stood With My Piccolo." So he has had lots of experiences with talent—and with no-talent.

Fedalia is a young Iowa girl whose father thinks she has the goods that big-time entertainers are made of. The family scrapes together enough money to send her to New York and to pay for singing lessons. Fedalia has a winning personality, is a beautiful girl with lovely blue eyes, so naturally everybody—including the professional friends she makes in the city—encourages her to think that she can reach the top...

Everybody, that is, except Adelbert Wixberry.

And Wixberry, program director of the big ABCA radio network, is just the guy who needs to be impressed...

He isn't...

As a matter of fact he is brutally frank to starry-eyed aspirants without talent when they show up for auditions.

And here's the way Mr. Willson (through Wixberry) explains it: "Johannes Brahms, the greatest composer of music this or any world ever saw, said that the way to stimulate talent is to stifle it, strangle it, choke it, ruthlessly and relentlessly. There are hundreds of thousands of good kids all over the world who've got a lot of poison star dust in their eyes. Somebody's got to be concerned enough about their future to be the villain and try to turn them out of a profession in which they can be less than mediocre at the very best.

"And you don't have to worry about ever cutting down somebody who happens to have real talent either. The percentage who have any honest-to-God-given gift, compared to those who are only stage-struck, is maybe one in a million, and you can't drown that one in a million. They couldn't starve Schubert or brook-beat Handel. They couldn't break the spirit of Schumann-Heink or Carrie Jacobs Bond. They threw Caruso out of the chorus, and they laughed at Chaliapin.

"You can't stop talent. Real talent is an express train of hurtling, unstoppable iron and steel and steam. You can't derail it. Can't sidetrack it. Talent has one-track courage that thrives on hardships and on unflinching day-in, day-out, soul-wearing, blistering, back-breaking regimes.

And just to prove that honest straight-from-the-shoulder talk often may be the most charitable, Mr. Willson's story has a very, very happy ending.

Lots of young people might take a cue from this book—before they waste time and borrowed dollars trying to etch out a musical career. If you are timid and shy and your only claim to fame is that you are the best singer in your high school, the chances are you'd better sit tight. But as the man says, if you've really got something terrific, and you sniff success, nobody can keep you from it!

And just to prove that honest straight-from-the-shoulder talk often may be the most charitable, Mr. Willson's story has a very, very happy ending.

Lots of young people might take a cue from this book—before they waste time and borrowed dollars trying to etch out a musical career. If you are timid and shy and your only claim to fame is that you are the best singer in your high school, the chances are you'd better sit tight. But as the man says, if you've really got something terrific, and you sniff success, nobody can keep you from it!

Ban Day Use Of Court Grounds

Further restrictions on ball playing at the Court House grounds as a result of continuing damage to adjacent property were imposed by the building and grounds committee of the Board of Supervisors at a meeting Wednesday evening.

Called into session because of reports of additional window breaking in the Franklyn Burgess residence near the southeast corner of the grounds, the committee voted to ban all ball playing at the site until 6 p. m. daily, and then to permit only the playing of softball for the rest of the 1952 season.

The area will be posted with signs bearing the restrictive directions.

The playing of hard ball at the grounds was prohibited by action taken by the full board at its April meeting, and softball, while permitted, was to be restricted to the diamond in the northeast section of the site. Violation of the order resulted in new damage, and has led to the prohibition of all day-time ball activities.

Alex Creighton, who appeared at the meeting in behalf of the Manistique Softball Association, reported that a new softball field in Central Park would be available for play next year, and requested permission for the league to use the Court House diamond the rest of this season.

Attending the committee session were Mayor Vernon C. Linderoth, chairman; Floyd Sample, of Thompson; Wells Bowers, of Mueller; William Popour, of Inwood; and William W. Davidson, of Doyle.

Insurance Lobbyists Beat White Pine Bill But House Revives It

LANSING. (AP) —A bill described by supporters as designed to facilitate the development of the new White Pine copper mine in Ontonagon county was defeated in the House but it was immediately revived for a second vote.

Backers of the Senate-approved measure were obviously taken by surprise at the 40-40 vote, 11 short of the necessary majority. They quickly moved a reconsideration and laid the measure on the table.

The bill would permit the copper company and all contractors and sub-contractors working on the development to carry workers' compensation insurance with one insurance company.

A member who voted against the bill and asked to remain anonymous reported that insurance company lobbyists had been working feverishly in the House against the bill, claiming it was an unnecessary restriction on the choice of insurance companies.

Firearms Controls Laxer In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE—(AP) —With apparent confidence in its domestic security precautions, Yugoslavia has relaxed its safeguards against purchase of firearms, munitions and explosive materials.

Hunting club, for example, now will be able to buy ammunition without obtaining a special permit from the ministry of interior.

In announcing the relaxation, the official press said the restrictions went into effect after the war for "general security."

Resolution To Hold State Quarterfinal Cage Tourney Games In U.P. Considered

A resolution from the U. P. Sports Writers Association requesting a U. P. playing site for state quarter-final cage tournaments in Classes B, C, and D, will be given consideration by the Representative Council when plans are made for the 1953 tournaments, according to Charles E. Forsythe, state director of athletics.

Responding to action by the Sports Writers Association at the spring meeting, Forsythe states, "In connection with the matter of 'home floor' I must point out that the locations for the three games in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula quarterfinals were specifically arranged so that no team would be competing on the same floor on which it had played a district or regional tournament game.

"We received considerable criticism from some schools in Northern Michigan because of the locations selected but still felt that this arrangement was only fair to the Upper Peninsula schools competing down state.

"I think it has been pointed out previously that we have tried to move the schools at least so they were across the straits for first round games. Those schools still have better than 200-250 miles to travel and they are given an extra day.

"If the games were moved back

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

Elsewhere on the page is a reply from Charles E. Forsythe, state director of high school athletics, on the resolution of the Upper Peninsula Sportswriters Association requesting state quarter-final basketball tournament games in the U. P. The reply calls for further comment, we believe.

First of all, the tone of the letter implies that there is little possibility of the Representative Council approving the U. P. writers' resolution. Forsythe points out in his first statement that the locations for the three games in the Lower Michigan quarter-finals were specifically arranged so that no team would be competing on the same floor on which it had played a district or regional tournament game.

One of the reasons for drafting the U. P. resolution this Spring was to give the Upper Peninsula champions a fair break on the home site of the quarter-finals. The answer is not as simple as it appears. Regardless of the district and regional floors the quarter-finals have always been played in the same areas. That means teams in those areas are familiar with the courts from regular season play—regardless of where the district and regional games are played.

Take this as an example. Say the Class B district tournament involving Escanaba this year was played at Menominee. Say Escanaba won the tournament and traveled to Houghton for the regional tournament and won it. Then say the state quarter-final tourney was staged at Gladstone. Would the Eskimos have a "home floor" advantage over a team—say Alpena—from Lower Michigan? Of course they would.

Another factor which prompted the U. P. writers to draft their resolution was the disadvantage to Upper Peninsula fans in the existing setup whereby all quarter-finals are held in Lower Michigan. In spite of the discouraging tone of Forsythe's reply we'd still like to see at least one class quarter-final held in the U. P. to give both players and fans an even break.

No Lucky Punch -- Joe Thought I Won -- Ezzard

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Jersey Joe Walcott felt he proved a sore point last night in retaining his World Heavyweight boxing championship.

"I hope this fight proves to the world that I am the rightful heavyweight champion."

The champion made it quite clear that his 15 round unanimous decision over Ezzard Charles was his long delayed answer to those who scoffed at his title winning knockout of Charles in Pittsburgh last summer.

Sitting on a table in his dressing room under Municipal stadium, the 38-year-old Camden, N. J., boxer blurted out what obviously has been on his mind for almost a year:

Know Better Now

"People have been asking if I was lucky in Pittsburgh. Some didn't even ask. They just said the old man landed a lucky punch. They ought to know better now."

Charles' trainer, Ray Arcel, was more vociferous. "The referee annoyed him (Charles) all the way. When Ezzard got his eye cut, the referee wiped off the stuff we put on it. He kept telling Charles to keep punches up and that he wouldn't warn him again."

Jersey Joe agreed with the referee Zach Clayton.

"Charles hit me low at least eight times. Some of them really hurt," said the champion.

Glad Of Decision

When Walcott was ready to talk, he sat and posed for photographers with his right arm wrapped around the small shoulders of his "good luck mascot," 11-year-old Jimmy Slater of McKeesport, Pa.

"I really was glad I won a decision instead of a knockout. I planned to win a decision and that's what I did. Naturally, I wanted knockout, if I could get one, but I knew that a decision would be more satisfying. It proves that I'm really Charles' master, not a guy with a lucky punch."

Both Charles and Walcott agreed that boxing's longest series was over, at least for the time being. It was the fourth meeting of the two heavyweights.

Walcott didn't have a mark on him after the fight, his nose bled in the late rounds, but that had been cleaned up in short order. Charles needed three stitches to close one of two cuts alongside his right eye.

Hogan will have many of the greats of sport in the audience here Monday night. It will be the week of the National Open golf tournament in Dallas when Hogan will seek to repeat with the championship.

Hogan is the Texan who won about every championship golf has to offer; who recovered from critical injuries in a bus-car accident to win the National Open title twice.

Walcott Decisions Charles To Retain Title

By MURRAY ROSE

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—A million dollar shot with either undefeated Rocky Marciano or Harry (Kid) Matthews appeared to be the next move ahead for fabulous Jersey Joe Walcott today as he celebrated his second straight victory over Ezard Charles.

Escanaba will make a bid for the Upper Peninsula tournament in Class A, B and C and on Old-timer tournament for this fall, it was indicated by the representatives. The U. P. tourney was held in Iron Mountain last year.

Tournament sites will be selected at the meeting at which sanction fees for each team will be due. There is a possibility that the U. P. may be divided into two regions, East and West, for tournament play.

Other softball commissioners expected to attend are Mario Petrantonio of Iron Mountain, Herb Levin of Sault Ste. Marie, Gordon O'Rourke of the Copper Country, Sec. Violetta and Rudy Simonich of Ironwood and Ed Stevens of Negaunee. Violetta is president of the U. P. Association.

I didn't win the first time by a lucky punch," said Walcott.

While the once poverty-stricken Negro accepted congratulations from a mob of well-wishers, Manager Felix Bocchicchio began casting lines to net a golden catch for his amazing oldtimer.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club offered Walcott either Marciano, of Brookton, Mass., or Matthews, the sensational Seattle contender, for September.

This seemed to indicate that the proposed Marciano-Matthews match for New York in July won't come off unless Walcott turns down a match right off with either.

Won Last Round

Walcott, who came off the relief roles to make his amazing comeback, held on to his title by capturing the last round on the scorecards of two officials. It was back in 1947 that a losing last round cost Jersey Joe the title in his first fight with Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden.

Judges Buck McTiernan and Pete Tomasco scored the 15th for Walcott. That means the difference and a unanimous decision. McTiernan, who refereed the Pittsburgh fight between the two, voted for Walcott, 8-7. Tomasco had Joe ahead, 7-6.

If they had cast their last round ballots for Charles he would have become the first former champion ever to regain the heavyweight crown. Referee Zach Clayton, the first Negro ever to referee a heavyweight championship fight, gave Charles the last round but voted for Walcott, 9 to 6.

The Associated Press scorecard had Charles in front, 7-6-2.

But almost to a man, those who voted for Charles were agreed that he didn't deserve to win back the title on his lackluster display.

Barks Post 9-8 Tri County Win

BARK RIVER — Four hits in five trips, including a pair of doubles, by shortstop Ted Cavadeas led the Bark River baseball team to a 13-11 attack and a 9-8 win over Foster City in a makeup game here yesterday.

Manager Leo Knauf's Tri County club won with a three-run spurt in the sixth inning. Foster City threatened to tie it up with a one-run rally in the ninth but fell short.

Joe Rademacher went the distance on the Bark River mound and allowed eight hits. He walked only one. Knauf had a perfect day at the plate, collecting three hits in three times up.

It was the second win in four starts for Bark River.

Bob Olson Makes Garden Ring Debut

NEW YORK—(P)—Carl (Bobo) Olson, Hawaiian middleweight, makes his Madison Square Garden debut tonight in a 10-round bout with Jimmy Beau of New Canaan, Conn.

Olson, rated among the top six middleweights, has a record of 45 victories in 50 professional fights, including 23 knockouts. He recently stopped Walter Carter in five rounds to earn top billing on tonight's card.

Beau is a fast-punching fighter who has done most of his battling against light heavies. He has won 30 of his 38 bouts, 16 by knockouts.

Field Of Eight Is Set For Belmont Running Saturday

NEW YORK — (P)—Trainers of eight classy three-year-old colts are expected to trek to the secretary's office today at Belmont Park and plank down the $1,000 starting fee on a gamble that might bring them back a cool $84,400.

Eight horses, headed by the flashy Blue Man from Arthur W. Abbott's White Oak stable, seemed the maximum for the mile and one half "test of the champion." But if only six start in this 8th Belmont, the purse will hit a new record high.

With eight facing the starter tomorrow at 3:45 p. m. (EST)—and a thorough search through stables at Belmont, Jamaica and Aqueduct turned up no more—the purse would total $120,500. A year ago when the present record was set it was $117,000, and Counterpoint, the winner, bagged $82,000.

Preakness Winner

Nothing was changed in the minds of most horse followers who are tub-thumping for Blue Man, easy winner of the Preakness May 17 at Baltimore.

Others expected for the Belmont, first raced at old Jerome Park in the Bronx in 1867, are Isidor Bieber's King Jolie, Armageddon from the Cain Hoy stable of Harry Guggenheim, the Mythen stable's Master Fiddle, Golden Gloves, William Woodward's Belair stud, Fred W. Hooper's English-bred Olympic, and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' One Count. All must pack 126 pounds.

Odds-makers listed Blue Man at 4 to 5, certain that jockey Conn McCreary will sit back and let the others knock themselves out—then turn on the usual late rush to mow them down as he did in the Preakness, Experimental Handicap No. 2 and Flamingo Stakes.

Armaggedon, the one-eyed colt, is the probable second choice at 3 to 1.

Jockeys Juggled

"Blue Man certainly is the horse to beat," said Moody Jolley, Armageddon's trainer. "He'll probably be the short priced favorite."

Negro Ref First In Ring History For Title Match

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Zach Clayton, a former basketball player with the world famed Harlem Globetrotters, is the first Negro ever to referee a heavyweight championship fight.

The 40-year-old Clayton, who moved into top officiating assignments in the Philadelphia area in recent years, was the third man in the ring last night when Jersey Joe Walcott successfully defended his heavyweight title against Ezzard Charles.

Clayton, a city fireman who recently refereed the welterweight bout between unbeaten Gil Turner and Chico Varona of Cuba, was criticized by the Charles camp for his handling of the title bout. Ray Arcel, Charles' trainer, thought Clayton had handicapped the challenger by warning him of low blows throughout the fight.

Charles said he hit low only once and that was unintentional.

Walcott said he had been hit below the belt at least eight times.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(P)—Western Michigan, champion of the Mid-America League, has advanced to the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship baseball tournament starting in Omaha, Neb., next week.

Western Michigan defeated Illinois 10-1 yesterday for its second straight triumph in the NCAA district 4 playoff.

Two Illini hit safely in the final inning, but centerfielder Jack Baldwin made a running catch to snag Louis Krantz' blow to the fence and save the game.
